

Dishonest Reporting Awards

HonestReporting.com, which monitors anti-Israel bias in the media, has just made its annual awards in "recognition of the most skewed and biased coverage of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict".

The winner was Reuters. Examples of its relentless bias included

- Omitting all mention of Palestinian attacks on Israeli civilians from its list of "Worst Guerilla Attacks since September 11";
- Describing suicide bombers as being among Palestinians "killed by Israeli forces";
- Repeatedly attributing to Hamas the motive of seeking "a state in Gaza and the West Bank" even though the whole point of Hamas is to reject that option and seek the destruction of Israel.

Last year's winner, the BBC, has to content itself with a mere Disonorable Mention, along with tragically many other news organisations. Read it all.

Keep up the good work, HonestReporting. Shame on you, Reuters and the others.

Tue, 12/16/2003 - 20:26 | digg | del.icio.us | permlink